

Vector Vaults

Hidden History Saga

Background

You are Samuel, an human abducted by some 'dingir' into Annu's mother ship in orbit around earth. They make an offer: help us break into the onboard computer SOLOMON using virtual avatar Enoch. They can't do it themselves as their neural profiles are well known to SOLOMON. Your reward: Galactic Imperium citizenship. Among many other advantages this will extend your lifespan indefinitely. You don't know yet who's Annu or why these 'dingir' want to break into SOLOMON, but unending life is enough motivation. Just before a dingir called Samael switches you to virtual mode inside SOLOMON you state: 'Let's do this!' in a loud confident voice.

Instructions

You are in charge of a ship shaped virtual avatar called Enoch. Your job is to penetrate each of the security encryption layers of SOLOMON in order to finally crack the computer and defeat Annu, so Vector Vaults is kind of a digital lock. The ship energy level is located on the bottom left corner of the screen, keep picking up batteries to refill it. Joystick or keyboard (O, P, Q, A and SPACE) may be used to play Vector Vaults. The fire button (or SPACE key) activates the turbo speed. Pressing the ESC key immediately terminates the current game. A far lenient skill level called 'child' is available from the main menu so every one can enjoy the game.

Good Luck